

The image is a detailed architectural site plan for a building complex. The central building is highlighted with red and yellow shading. The red areas represent the main building footprint, while the yellow areas indicate specific internal courtyards or open spaces. Key features include a circular 'Lichtschacht' (light shaft) and a large circular feature, possibly a well or a large planter. The plan is bounded by several streets: 'Berliner Straße' to the south, 'Bodelschwingstraße' to the east, and 'Hauptstraße' to the north. To the west, there are areas labeled 'Grieses Hof' and 'Parkplatz u. Tiefgarage'. The plan also shows a 'Stadtbahn' (city railway) line running along the northern boundary. Various lot numbers, street names, and infrastructure details like 'Radweg' (bicycle path) and 'Gehweg' (sidewalk) are labeled throughout the plan. The overall layout suggests a complex urban integration with existing infrastructure and surrounding land.
